The BayREN Home+ Program provides assistance and incentives for home improvement projects that can reduce energy use and make homes more comfortable. This program is managed locally by regional energy networks and directed by the California Public Utilities Commission in collaboration with the California Energy Commission. Funding comes from utility customers under the auspices of the California Public Utilities Commission. Incentives are offered on a first-come, first-served basis and are effective until funding is expended or the program is discontinued. Programs may be modified or terminated without prior notice.
